Road Construction and Management Training Course

By Henry Kawas

'Constructing and managing a forest road is expensive and needs careful planning to avoid long term road maintenance problems thus minimising cost over short and long term' Andrew McEwan – Forest Engineering Consultant.

This point was stressed to CBSFL trainees at a recent Forest Road

Construction and Management Training Course held at the Bonoabo Sawmill Base Camp.

The training was attended by CBSFL foresters, supervisors and machine operators of the harvesting and roading sections of the mill. A total of 10 participants attended the training from 27th to 29th September 2009.

WELL DONE ALICE!!!
